

LEATHERNECKS DRIVE TOWARD COMMANDING NEW KEY POSITIONS, WHILE PINCHING OFF FANATIC NORTH KOREAN COMMUNISTS IN THE CAPITAL CITY OF SEOUL

U. S. 1st Cavalry Division Drives Toward 7th Division Link-Up

PUSH THROUGH NIGHT

The Situation at Seoul Is Described As Being "Fluid"

By Howard Handeman
(Far Eastern Director, I. N. S.)

TOKYO, Sept. 23.—(INS)—American Leathernecks pinching off fanatic North Korean Communists in the capital city of Seoul drove toward commanding key positions today, bolstered by a 50-mile northward push from the southeast.

Troops of the U. S. First Cavalry Division operating out of the Taegu area and driving toward a linkup with Seventh Division forces which captured Suwon and its vital airport 20 miles south of Seoul pushed throughout the night for a strategic junction.

The situation at Seoul, where U. S. First Marine Division troops deployed north, west and south of die-hard enemy positions in the heart of the ancient city, was fluid. Hard-driving U. S. 7th Infantry Division troops which took Suwon and its airport, cutting a double-track railway line and severing a vital highway, reduced the overall distance between north and south United Nations liberation forces to about 95 miles.

Under a sweep of air attack with bombs, rockets and napalm (jelled gasoline) bombs, this gap could be reduced over the week-end to a circumference containable by the north-south anvil-hammer strategy worked out by Gen. Douglas MacArthur and his staff immediately after the Inchon invasion.

Seventh Division seizure of Suwon and its airfield coupled with advances along the Han within a few thousand yards of Seoul's most important hubs seemingly made the capital's fall a mere matter of hours.

But International News Service front dispatches from War Correspondent Frank Conniff told of Communist use of long accumulated-artillery and mortar shell supplies to pour opposition fire against advancing American troops.

The impact of this fire, Conniff reported, exceeded in intensity anything the North Korean Reds had presented in opposition to United Nations advances since the Inchon offensive of a week ago.

It was apparent that the 18 thousand North Koreans defending Seoul have been ordered to put up

"Aunt Silly" Chorus Resemble Beauty Contest

A number of the most charming and talented girls in Edgely and Bristol are taking part in the choruses to be offered in connection with the famous comedy show, "Aunt Silly." Rehearsals of the choruses are resembling a local beauty contest because there are so many attractive girls taking part.

The girls who will appear in the beautiful lady dance attired in attractive pastel costumes are the following: Joan Griffen, Sue Cerutti, Gertrude DeKoyler, Margery E. Schmidt, Eleanor Gilmore, Carole Whorlton, Constance Gould and Irene Bonas.

Did we say that all of the chorus members in "Aunt Silly" were beautiful? Well that was a slight oversight, or a matter of opinion. In some quarters, the members of one of the other choruses are considered to be about the funniest things ever seen in Edgely. Different prominent business and professional men of the community are taking part in the business man's chorus and revue and when you read below the names of the parts being taken you will see "what we mean." Can't you imagine Harry Pitman as "Mata Hairy," George L. Whorlton as "Barbara Whitchy," Turner Ashby as "Bill of the Ball," Mr. Johnson as "Teacher's Pet," Jimmy Wright as "Little Go Peep," Freddie Glammann as "Lonesome Sal, the Bicycle Gal" and Freddie Hibbs as "Little Go Peep" . . . and others . . . It's all in the spirit of fun and for a very worthy cause . . . fire equipment, building, and maintenance of Edgely Fire Co.

You may purchase your ticket from any member of the Edgely Fire Co. or Auxiliary or during parade on Monday September 25. Parade committee Turner Ashby, Ann Walker, Jimmy Wright and Freddie Glammann have a few surprises ready for you. . . .

Whistling in The Dark

By "The Stroller"

Two well known Bristol women were caught whistling in the dark the other night outside the tent of the Lambertville Music Circus. They were not whistling at any young men. They were whistling to keep up their courage.

This is how it happened. The two went to the popular entertainment tent, having been driven there by some friends. Arrangements were made for them to return with other friends. But the other friends forgot that they were to bring them back to Bristol.

As the friends who were to bring them home reached Yardley, one exclaimed with consternation: "Oh, we forgot." That was enough. The car was swung swiftly around and back to Lambertville they went. There they found the pair from Bristol standing beside the tent whistling in the dark to keep up their courage.

JUDGE ALLOWS THE CHARGES WITHDRAWN

Action Taken After Prosecutor Admitted That He Grabbed Defendant

OCCURRED IN BRISTOL

DOYLESTOWN, Sept. 23.—When the prosecutor, James F. Horan, 28, Eddington, admitted that he grabbed the defendant first, Judge Edward G. Blester allowed two charges, aggravated assault and battery and indecent assault, but directed that he pay the costs.

The defendant is Anthony Bova, who lives in a trailer camp near Langhorne. The case was tried before a jury in Judge Keller's court.

The Commonwealth alleged that on July 22, 14-year-old Delores Louder was assaulted by the defendant in a car near Langhorne. The court pointed out to the jury that the case contained a great deal of conflicting evidence and that it would be up to the jurors to decide who in their opinion was telling the truth.

Members of the jury were Helen J. Coolbaugh, Newtown, R. D. 2, foreman; Gertrude Goranoff, Doylestown, R. D.; H. Hyam Quimby, Carversville; N. Earle DeCoursey, Jamison; Erna M. Doane, Quakertown, R. D. 1; Harvey Hunsicker, Perkasee; Ruth Somp, Ottaville; Victor J. Banas, Quakertown; Francis Nealis, Bristol; Marion E. Brunner, Chalfont; William Cooper, Bristol; Albert Shees, Quakertown.

"The court has no fault to find with the verdict, but you were guilty of conduct unbecoming a married man," Judge Keller said to the defendant after directing him to pay the costs.

Griffith Reese, 68, 123-125 Woodland avenue, Pennel, who was acquitted of assault and battery, which was alleged to consist of slapping a ten-year-old neighbor girl who was retrieving a ball on his lawn, but directed to pay one-half of the costs of prosecution, heard Judge Edward G. Blester de-

KAISER - FRAZER MAY BUILD SHIPS

Stockholders To Be Asked To Give Permission To The Management

SPECULATION HERE

Speculation was started today as to what part Bristol would play if the Kaiser-Frazer Corp. decides to enter the shipbuilding business.

Edgar F. Kaiser, president of the corporation, is reported ready to ask the stockholders permission to begin building ships "if and when the corporation receives ship orders."

The Kaiser interests own controlling stock of the Kaiser Metal Products plant here in Bristol. During the first World War the Radcliffe street location was a busy ship yard, turning out numerous vessels for the government.

The Kaiser move into the shipbuilding industry might again reactivate the facilities here in Bristol. Or if the ships would be built elsewhere, the metal fabricating equipment at the Bristol plant might be utilized and expanded to turn out ship sections and parts.

The Kaiser-Frazer Corp. will call a special meeting to ask its stockholders about the ship building question. If the proposal is accepted, the corporation will continue in its steel and automobile lines, but would be ready to handle ship construction if the orders came in.

Mr. Kaiser said that the firm had already signed a contract with the naval architectural firm of George S. Sharpe, New York, for certain designs on new-type shipping.

"In the event that the current defense program calls for ships of a type not available in the fleet of cargo ships now in 'mothballs,' we are prepared to assist . . . in the ship building business," Mr. Kaiser said.

He added that the program is being developed "on our own initiative," and that no contract or commitment has been established with the government.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Klerman

(Distributed by International News Service)

You know things are disturbed when the "national sweater queen" only got one picture in the papers.

She didn't get as much space as Denham and Johnson and they were wearing their traveling togs.

I hear the next counsel for NLRB will be picked on the basis of strong character, fine legal mind and willingness to subordinate a little of each.

The ideal man would be a fellow who knows exactly what Taft-Hartley intended and Truman-Murray won't stand for.

And if they can't find one that brings us back to the national sweater queen again . . . at least there are no arguments about how she stands.

But the reason it's so difficult to find good men for Washington openings is that there is no job security . . . the first thing the new counsel for NLRB should do is write himself a closed shop contract.

And if he doesn't want to do it . . . Murray and Green will be happy to organize him.

RUMORS THAT FEED HOPE

Unarmed military experts at Washington are quoted by a news service as believing that reports of peace overtures by the North Korean communists are premature—though the experts see the position of the red armies as virtually hopeless.

Laymen are at liberty to take either view, or neither. But whether these persistent rumors are premature or logical, the opinions of the experts nourish the hope that the war is nearing an end—unless communist China or Russia decides to intervene directly.

The possibility continues to exist, although apparently remotely, that the North Koreans may succeed in concentrating around Seoul and wailing in the American expeditionary force there. The plan has been well conceived and brilliantly begun, but no one can be absolutely sure that it will quickly succeed. Always the fog of war must be taken into account.

Still, and even though there may be no real basis for them, rumors of peace feelers sound good to American ears. They confirm that the outcome of the fighting is now taken for granted, even if victory may be deferred. When the North Koreans are convinced they cannot win, the end will not be far away.

Unless Russia is determined to prolong the fighting, that is.

SOCIALISM AS USUAL

In Britain, as in the United States, politics rarely adjourns. Certainly politics is in session there right now, despite the Korean war and its manifold implications. The proof is readily found in the Labor government's decision to go ahead with the nationalization of the steel industry.

This it can do, of course. Legislation authorizing this step is already on the books. But the government had been singing very low on this subject since last spring's election, which it won by a perilously slim margin. Opponents had assumed that it would continue this policy in the present critical situation.

The reversal took them by surprise and some Conservatives are still rubbing their eyes. They had not seen an about-face as good politics for Prime Minister Attlee.

But do Britons want socialism as usual in this emergency? That is the issue, if the Conservatives can make them see it.

HIGHER AUTO PRICES

Predictions are numerous that prices of all makes of automobiles will be boosted before the year's end. Several small manufacturers have announced increases, and it is hardly likely they would have done so unless they had reason to believe the entire industry would be forced to follow. Wages continue to rise, and so do costs of all materials that enter into an automobile.

Automobiles now cost twice as much as they did 10 years ago, and there is nothing to indicate that the inflationary spiral in the motor car industry has lost speed.

Miss Blanche K. Gallagher Is Wed To Mr. J. C. Brady

The Rev. Paul E. Baird officiated at a nuptial ceremony in St. Mark's R. C. Church, this morning, when at the hour of 10 he united in matrimony Miss Blanche K. Gallagher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Gallagher, 539 Linden street, and Mr. Joseph C. Brady, son of Mr. James J. Brady, Bath street. The ceremony was a double ring one. Given in marriage by her father, the bride was costumed in an ivory satin gown, with pointed self-trim for the close-fitting neckline. The gown, which had long, tapered sleeves, buttoned down the front in redingote effect, the pointed self-trim effect being carried out at the ends of the sleeves, and from the waist-line to the floor in front. Her headpiece was a satin cap and finger-tip veil. The bride carried a prayer book of mother of pearl, with stephanotis and satin streamers attached. Her slippers were white satin.

Miss Elizabeth Gallagher, Corson street, attended her cousin as maid of honor. Miss Gallagher was costumed in a strapless gown of moiré tulle and full skirt. Her matching jacket of satin had portrait collar and three-quarter sleeves. The headpiece was a satin Dutch cap. The attendant carried a matching satin muf to the front of which American beauty roses were attached.

Serving Mr. Brady as best man was Mr. Francis Fallon, Corson street.

Organist, Miss Katherine Keating, of Linden street, accompanied Miss Margaret Fallon, Corson street, the vocalist. Numbers by Miss Fallon were "Ave Maria," "On This Day Oh Beautiful Mother," "I Love You Truly," "O Lord I Am Not Worthy," and "The Rosary."

Dinner was served to the bridal party and members of the Brady and Gallagher families at the Penn Manor Club, Falls township. For her wedding trip of two weeks to Lake Placid, N. Y., the bride travelled in a brown gabardine suit, beaver hat, brown lizard slippers and bag, and white gloves. She is employed by Rohm & Haas Co. Mr. Brady is an employee of Inter-State Television Co., Philadelphia. The two will make their home at 600 Bath street.

A Prayer for Guidance
May we always look to Thee for guidance in the living of our daily lives, that we may be patterned more like after Thee. May we attend firmly for those things that please Thee as Thou dost lead us. May we be more like men having the courage of our convictions, even though we may be temporarily misunderstood, realizing that truth can never die nor be done away. May we patiently follow Thy leading toward that higher life in Thee. Amen.

1, 2, 3, Again!

88 Olds repeats its sweeping victory of 1949 by winning the 1950 200-mile stock car race at Langhorne. As in 1949 the Oldsmobile 88 won the first three places in the race. Furthermore, the last three stock car races have all been won by the Olds 88.

In Sunday's race we had a personal interest in the winning Olds 88. Our service department conditioned the car for the race and one of our mechanics acted as pit crew for the winning car.

Oldsmobile proved again its superior performance, roadability and reliability.

At the same time, our service department can take a bow for the work performed on the car.

We realize the public demand for reliable cars and reliable service and our agency can satisfy both demands.
